Portsmouth International Port

About Portsmouth Harbour

Portsmouth Harbour is known the world over as a Naval Port and home and maintenance base for the Royal Navy. The Royal Dockyard had its beginnings as long ago as the 13th Century.

In 1839 an Act of Parliament sanctioned the then Portsmouth Corporation to carry out construction for the betterment of the Port, which in those days meant the Quays at Camber Docks. It also authorised servants of the Corporation to collect Harbour Dues on ships using the Port and additional dues for all cargo passing over the quays.

Since those early days further Acts have been obtained to authorise the expansion of the Port, the building of new quays, modernisation of existing facilities and to construct a Continental Ferry Port for Portsmouth.

Portsmouth International Port, with its commercial quays and associated local businesses including the ferry companies continue to invest in new infrastructure, vessels and site development in response to the demand.

The number of Royal Navy ships now based in Portsmouth has decreased but the facilities within the Naval Dockyard are once again being used to build and repair boats, not only for the Royal Navy but also for Foreign Navies and commercial ventures too.

Tall Ships, Ocean Racers and Global Challenge vessels have all made Portsmouth the start or finish of their sea going adventures. Their crews have enjoyed leisure ashore, in the numerous local waterside bars, restaurants and shopping areas.

A variety of cruise vessels now make tourist calls in Portsmouth with their passengers taking advantage of the sights and sounds of Portsmouth City and southern Hampshire, as well as those which commence /conclude their cruise in Portsmouth.

The waters in and around Portsmouth Harbour are rarely quiet. Portsmouth Harbour provides a safe haven for a large number of yachts and other small craft within the growing number of marinas and safe mooring areas.

Portsmouth International Port

Portsmouth International Port, situated at the end of the M275, was opened in June 1976.

Visitor and long term parking is provided on site in a multi-storey car park with the capacity for 516 cars. Arranged over five floors, there is a dedicated space for motorcycles and an electronic car service to transport disabled passengers to and from the Terminal Building.

Cruise and Ferry Passenger Terminal Building

On 1 April 2011 Portsmouth International Port's new Terminal Building opened its doors to the first travellers to use the facilities.

Officially opened on 13 May 2011 by the Hon. Vince Cable MP, Secretary of State for Business, Portsmouth International Port's new terminal is part of a £16.5m investment and uses the latest eco-friendly technology to have minimum effect on the environment.

The building covers approximately 2,700 square metres and has a modern glass and stone façade.

A brise soleil provides shade to the southern face of the building.

The building includes a number of innovative environmentally friendly features. There are wind-catchers on the roof which provide ventilation to minimise the need for air conditioning in the summer, and a heat pump which uses the warmth of the sea to provide heating in the winter.

Sea water is also being used to flush the toilets, drastically reducing the water consumption of the building.

In addition to the building, new drop-off areas and roads are being constructed to improve access to and from the terminal building.

Within Portsmouth International Port's buildings a range of services are available to the traveller from 6am until midnight.
